

The edveNTUres of eLearning in NTU: A Case Study

Assoc Prof Daniel TH Tan
Nanyang Technological University

The Nanyang Technological University embarked on its eLearning journey in 1999. Since the launch of edveNTUre in 2000, the University have built a holistic learning environment to supported blended education. The presentation will look at the various contributing factors that resulted in its reaching saturation levels of adoption by staff and students within two years. It will also highlight eUreka, a project work management system. More than management project of under- and post-graduates, it manages the intellectual properties of the University in a systematic way.
